ENT UK and RCSEd podcast series:
a coffee room chat in ENT

Friday 18 March sees the first in a new series of podcasts produced by the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh in collaboration with ENT UK. The first episode takes a look at endoscopic ear surgery with BSO’s Wendy Smith and Gerard Kelly.

Each episode in the series will take the form of a coffee room chat between two experts in the field exploring the nuances of managing important and challenging topics in ENT, as well as surgical tips based on their experience and knowledge of the specialty. These podcasts contain the type of information you cannot easily find in books and other publications, and are aimed at consultants and senior trainees. This first series will be released weekly on the RCSEd website and app, Spotify, Apple and Buzzsprout every Friday from 18 March until 6 May.

The schedule of episodes and dates is below. Keep an eye out on the ENT UK and RCSEd websites, as well as social media, for regular updates.

- Friday 18 March: Endoscopic ear surgery, with Wendy Smith and Gerard Kelly
- Friday 25 March: Managing frontal sinus disease, with Archana Jaiswal and Caroline Smith
- Friday 1 April: Day case parotidectomy, with Shane Lester and Jai Manick
- Friday 8 April: Patient selection in rhinoplasty, with Peter Andrews and Raj Bhalla
- Thursday 14 April: Options in conductive hearing loss, with Neil Donnelly and Myrthe Hol
- Friday 22 April: Recurrent pleomorphic salivary adenoma, with Sanjai Sood and Stuart Winter
- Friday 29 April: Managing spontaneous CSF leaks, with Shahz Ahmed and Omar Pathmanaban
- Friday 6 May: Management of septal perforations, with Raj Bhalla and Nara Orban.